Clogwyn Lake, Llanberis. Mighty mountain friends and comrades stand around and about Snowdon, and among them is Clogwyn-du'r-Arddu, under whose frowning height lies the cwm and llyns (valley and lakes) of Clogwyn. From the ridge above Clogwyn cwm and its little lakes, Y Wyddfa (the highest point of Snowdon) is to be seen, and much of Carnarvonshire and Anglesea.

(FOR ADDRESS ONLY.)

This will give you a fair idea what some of the scenery like. Though I cannot begin to do them justice. The pass is several miles long. Imagine riding through such a scenery long.
